PAMPERED POOCH

From five-star spas to diamond collars, dogs are getting the royal treatment, writes Tessa Chan.

After an indulgent spa visit, your little companion may expect the royal treatment to be extended at home - which is where custom-made designer pet furniture and accessories come in handy. Puppy de Paris' Louis XIV-inspired Place Vendôme "apartment" is a bed fit for any four-legged monarch. Its lower part offers all-important privacy, with velvet curtains held open by French passementerie tiebacks, while the upper part provides deep upholstered drawers, with handles gilded in 24-carat gold - perfect for storing designer dog apparel and precious accessories. The cornice opens up like a jewellery chest, evoking all the splendour of the Parisian square in which it was crafted.

The Ecuelle Royal bowl, from the same fine jewellery workshop, is about as refined as a dog bowl can get. Inspired by an original 16th-century goldsmith's drawing, it is gilded in 24-carat gold and decorated with three fleurs-de-lis, reminiscent of the coats of arms of French royalty. Each limited-edition bowl is signed and numbered from one to 100. They also happen to be dishwasher safe.
